Pagoda Blood Bath Begins

SAIGON (Reuters)—President Ngo Dinh Diem cracked down hard Wednesday on South Viet Nam's Buddhists by declaring martial law throughout the country and sending troops to drive violently—resisting monks from pagodas.

Political observers here regarded the situation as most unstable and there was widespread belief a coup could come quickly.

(See stories on Pages 4, 5.)

Hundreds of monks and nuns were arrested and taken away in trucks after bloody clashes at pagodas here and in Hue, 400 miles north.

A large number of them apparently were wounded and some sources said an undis-

HAZLETON Pa. (UPI)—Drilling was resumed last night by rescue workers trying to reach two miners trapped 331 feet underground in a chamber in near-freezing temperatures.

Bomb Wrecks Bridge

In Montreal

MONTRÉAL (CP)—Quebec Provincial Police said early today a bomb exploded under a swing-bridge over the St. Lawrence Seaway at the west end of Montreal Island, destroying its mechanism.

The CPR investigation department said it had cancelled all runs which would have taken trains over the structure.

REPLACE DRILL HEAD

Technicians replaced a rotary drilling head and the big machine went back into use shortly after 8 p.m. Barring further mechanical delays, technicians hoped to break through to Fellin and Throne in the pre-dawn hours today.

Workers lowered 24-by-14 inch heating pads to the trapped miners last night, along with chemically treated hand-warmers, when temperatures dipped below 40 degrees. Fellin and Throne also ate a dinner of chicken, then rested.

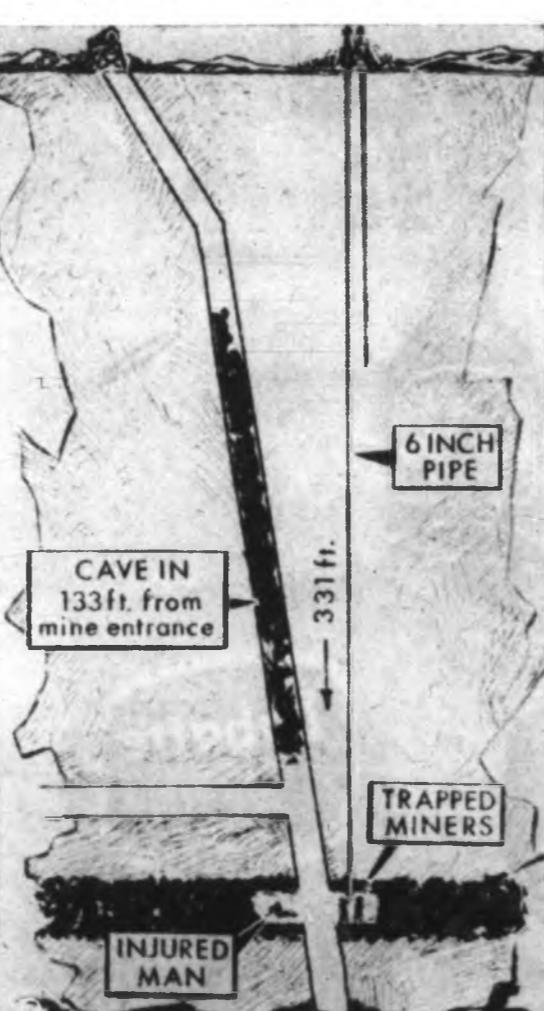

FATE UNKNOWN

Bova's fate was unknown. Hope that he was still alive in a second chamber was revived Tuesday night and Wednesday when his tapping was heard by his trapped colleagues.

The rotary drill was churning out a 12-inch wide hole. When this is completed, the hole will be widened to 17½ inches, then possibly to 24.

One official said it was hoped Fellin and Throne could be

U.S. Denounces Diem Violence

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States sharply denounced Wednesday the South Viet Nam regime's strong-arm acts against Buddhists. However, high authorities said American help in the South Vietnamese war against Communist guerrillas would continue.

President Kennedy assessed with concern reports reaching Washington through diplomatic channels indicating President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime had launched a get-tough campaign against Buddhist opponents, official sources said.

Then, the stage department issued this statement in Ian Lang's language rarely used toward a friendly government:

"On the basis of information from Saigon, it appears that the government of the Republic of Viet Nam has instituted repressive measures against the Vietnamese Buddhist leaders."

"The action represents a direct violation by the Vietnamese government of assurances it was pursuing a policy of reconciliation with the Buddhists."

"The United States deplores repressive actions of this nature."

Peter Willey, the historian who is leading the team, rediscovered Samiran on his way to the Valley of Assassins on another expedition in 1960.

It is a very big site, early medieval and possibly much older. It comprises the ruins of an enormous fortress overlooking a ruined city with a mosque and minaret and at least six mausolea, built by the Assassins in 1100 and destroyed by the Mongols in 1250.

It isn't known who was living there then, but Willey believes they were rich, cultured and civilized. Tenth century chronicles speak of a city of 3,000 houses, with temples of gold and silver, and compare it with Persepolis, capital of the great Persian empire during its heyday.

If the site turns out to be as good as Willey thinks—and it looks as if it could be as important as the threatened Egyptian temples which have caused so much more interest—they will certainly bring eleventh-hour pressure to try to divert the flooding.

Unlike the Egyptian temples of Abu Simbel, there have so far been no attempts to rescue it.

The city, Samiran, 200 miles northwest of Teheran, Iran, commanding the entrance to a great gorge between mountains and desert, will be sub-

Slim Hopes Held for Man Trapped in Yukon Mine

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—Hopes for the survival of Desmond Loughran, 23, of Edmonton, are considered "extremely slim," RCMP said yesterday.

Loughran had not been found more than 20 hours after a mine tunnel collapsed about midnight Tuesday, trapping him and another miner who later escaped.

'Shrapnel' Kills Three Firemen

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. (UPI)—Rocketing chunks of jagged metal killed three firemen Wednesday night when a fuel oil tank exploded with a roar in a spectacular fire at the Centre Coal & Oil Co.

At least seven other persons were injured, including a young boy whose leg was blown off at the knee.

Police identified the victims as Ashland fire chief Charles H. Moran and two of his men, Norman Berry and John Reenbaker.

Witnesses said Moran was standing less than 50 feet from the stubby, 20-foot-wide fuel oil tank when it blew up. One man said parts of the tank were hurled 50 feet.

Doukhobor Woman Pleads

For End to Hunger Strike

Why Should You Care

If My Boy Dies?

AGASSIZ, B.C. (CP)—A Sons of Freedom Doukhobor woman stood before scores of her excited compatriots Wednesday and demanded an end to hunger strikes on both sides of a prison fence.

Mrs. Nellie Nebokshoff of Grand Forks, B.C., whose son is serving eight years in nearby Mountain Prison, made the fruitless demand as other members of the sect joined brethren inside the prison in refusing to eat.

"If my boy dies, why should you care?" said Mrs. Nebokshoff in a dramatic meeting with Mrs. Florence Storgoff, a sect leader.

SET UP TENTS

Meanwhile, while the ponderous machine of the law started moving toward evictions, more than 500 homeless members of the sect continued setting up their tent camp under the watchful eye of authorities.

Mrs. Nebokshoff made her demand a day after the Freedomites arrived here from Vancouver, 80 miles to the west. The group is the remnant of upwards of 1,200 sect members who trekked to Vancouver from the southeast interior Kootenay last year.

HEARD OF STRIKE

They came to this Fraser Valley community after hearing of a hunger strike by all but two of the 116 Freedomites at the prison, specially constructed for sect members sentenced for civil rights march on Washington next Wednesday.

As the call went out for the hunger strike—with women and children exempt—among the trekkers Wednesday, a few Embassy officials welcomed the "walkers," Baldwin, Marshall, author James Jones and others presented acting ambassador Cecil Lyon with hundreds of signatures endorsing President Kennedy's civil rights legislation.

"I can understand your feelings," Lyon said. "I shall see to it that that reaches Washington."

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police are holding a 10-year-old boy on suspicion of arson in connection with a fire that trapped a mother and her daughter Tuesday. Mrs. Jackie Lorre of Haney and her daughter, Denise, 9, jumped to safety.

Money Bores Landlord

NEW YORK (UPI)—Archibald Neubecker is a unique millionaire landlord. He has to be forced to collect his rent and doesn't seem to care about making money.

This was brought out in federal court Wednesday when the government made a $400,000 tax settlement with Neubecker on an original claim of $1,000,000.

Neubecker's lawyer, Sidney S. Levine, a court-appointed trustee, said Neubecker had gone as long as two years without collecting rent from some tenants, and it took a court order to get Neubecker to pay himself $100 a week for living expenses.

brought to the surface through the 17½-inch gap, thus reducing the rescue operation by some 24 hours.

ESCAPE CAPSULE

Meanwhile, plans were disclosed last night for construction of a torpedo-like escape capsule which would be used to bring the men to the top.

It was designed by Clyde Machamer, president of the Independent Miners Association, for use both in a 17½-inch opening and a 24-inch gap. Machamer, 3 feet, 7 inches and 225 pounds, said he has been able to get inside capsules with the same dimensions.

The escape hatches will be constructed of solid, rolled steel today at the Pagnotti Coal Co. in West Pittstown, about 40 miles from here. Both a 17½-inch and 24-inch model will be built.

15 INCHES WIDE

The interior of the tube will be 15 to 15½ inches wide, with no perforations but allowing sufficient air to enter. It presumably will be attached to heavy steel cables.

The capsule would be about 6½ feet in length, enabling the miners to stand in it.

Once the miner is inside, flaps on either end of the Buck Rogers contraption would automatically lock.

closed number of monks were killed.

Reliable sources said a monk disembowelled himself just before the raids began—first suicide by this method since Buddhists began a struggle against alleged religious persecution by the government of Diem, a Roman Catholic.

TROOPS MOVE IN

In Hue, troops moved in with armored cars early Wednesday from the direction of Phu Bai, a big military base where government troops are being trained for anti-Communist jungle warfare.

Your Good HealthIf You Have Asthma Then Stop Smoking

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Please try to explain my problem. I am told in English. My doctor told me I had bronchial asthma. Then I went to a clinic and after a series of tests the answer was that I was pulmonary emphysema. The doctors there tried to explain it, but they used such big medical words I still do not understand.—Mrs. S. D.

Asthma means difficulty in breathing, and the bronchial aspect means that the difficulty lies in the bronchial tubes, the main branches from the windpipe into the lungs.

Bronchial asthma can result from various causes, the most frequent ones being constriction or spasm because of allergy, or emotional or other factors; swelling of the tissues because of any of various types of irritation or inflammation; and clogging because of phlegm.

CANNOT TAKE

Pulmonary emphysema means that the lungs do not expand enough air, and consequently cannot take enough in with the next breath. The lungs have lost some of their springy elasticity.

Drugs can help reduce the asthma. On the other hand, there is no way to undo the changes that have occurred from the emphysema. Instead, you must try to prevent it from becoming worse.

Mother Issues Plea

members refused and some ate berries from bushes.

Prison officials refused Mrs. Nebokhonoff permission to see her son, so to tell him to stop participating in the prison hunger strike, now in its 31st day.

Later there was a face-to-face meeting with Mrs. Storgoff while more than 100 excited members stood about.

Mrs. Nebokhonoff pointed her finger at Mrs. Storgoff, called Big Fanny because of her girth, and said: "They should give up this nonsense and eat. Only the mothers know the truth and you have no children."

"If my boy dies, why should you care?"

SHOULD GET OUT

"If you do not agree with us you should get out," replied Mrs. Storgoff.

Mrs. Nebokhonoff said in an interview she does not consider herself a member of the trek but her family is camped with the others. While she spoke her sons made jokes at her expense.

Police and municipal officials explained to the Freedemites that a bylaw prohibits more than five tents to an acre and that the maximum penalty for breaking it is a $500 fine and six months in jail.

WILL TAKE TIME

But police said it will take time to go through the legal processes. Names of owners of tents and legal descriptions of the land were required before a summons could be issued and a court date set.

Meanwhile, Dr. R. C. Swan, medical officer for the area, said the camp constitutes a potential health hazard but there is no immediate danger. The camp would be inspected every day.

PEOPLE VERY CLEAN

"These people are very clean and we expect they will co-operate in health matters."

Prisoners who haven't eaten for a month were ordered fed by Warden Tom Hall and Allan J. McLeod, commissioner of penitentiaries.

Mr. McLeod said those who would not pick up a glass of egg nog and drink voluntarily would get it forced into them by tubes to their stomachs.

114 FORCE-FED

The force-feeding began Sunday and extended Tuesday night to all 114 inmates participating in the strike. Only two have been eating through the entire strike.

The strike is believed to have started because the marching Doukhobors failed to carry out a seven-month-old promise by one of the leaders, Mrs. Fanny Storgoff, to storm the prison.

Officials said the prisoners are totally unaware that the trekkers are outside the prison five miles from this small Fraser Valley town. All communication by letter, radio and visit was cut off by Warden Hall when the strike began.

The trek to Agassiz began by car and truck from Krestova, 350 miles from here, last September with 1,200 participating.

The 500 remaining appear confused, demoralized and upset by being uprooted for the fifth time in a year.

Most disturbed are the children who made friends at homes along the march route, especially during the seven months they spent in Vancouver.

At the jail, Mr. McLeod challenged a Doukhobor leader who approached him: "You want your brothers and sisters to die of starvation just so you can have a martyr?"

The leader said: "It is not a matter of food with us."

McLeod said none of the inmates would die "if we can prevent it."

The Doukhobors said they would camp outside the prison until they were forced to leave.

China Ridiculed By Khrushchev

BELGRADE (CP-AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev has openly ridiculed Red China's economic concepts and praised a form of Yugoslav worker-factory management long decried by China.

Speaking Wednesday, second day of his two-week visit to Yugoslavia, Khrushchev also threw in lavish praise for the late American automobile pioneer, Henry Ford.

MOTOR FACTORY

The platform for Khrushchev's attack on China was Yugoslavia's big motor factory at Rakovica, outside Belgrade. He drove there with his wife, Nina, Yugoslav Vice-president Alexander Rankovic and members of the Soviet party who came with Khrushchev from Moscow.

He criticized Chinese pledges to go it alone in economic development, quipping:

"They say we are going to rely on our own resources — then they write to us for credits."

"Their motto is 'Our resources and your credits!'"

He added, however, that in the entire Communist world only China, besides the Soviet Union, has the manpower and resources potential for large-scale mass production of all products.

He paid tribute to Ford, whose automobile assembly line techniques opened the way for modern - day mass - production economy.

NOT ASHAMED

"Ford demonstrated how to do it," said Khrushchev. "We learned from Ford and we are not ashamed to admit it. If we don't learn mass production methods, then no amount of curses and slogans will help us."

Millions on Millions Would Die in Hour

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States has a nuclear stockpile capable of killing 300,000 people in one hour, President Kennedy says.

He reiterated the point at his press conference Tuesday when asked to comment on the arguments of physicist Dr. Edward Teller that more atmospheric tests are necessary to ensure U.S. defense capabilities.

Kennedy said that "a good many other scientists with comparable experience" thought that the recent partial test ban treaty was a "source of strength" for the U.S.

"How many weapons do you need and how many megatons do you need to destroy?" he asked.

EVEN MORE POSSIBLE

He noted that he had said earlier that "what we now have on hand without further testing will kill 300,000,000 people in one hour. . . . And I suppose they (the scientists) can even improve on that if it's necessary."

LONDON

The British foreign office announced Bolivia has signed the east-west nuclear test ban accord, raising to 62 the number of nations acceding to the Moscow treaty.

MOSCOW STUDIES PACT

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union's top legislative body has begun consideration of ratification of the treaty.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the council of ministers submitted the treaty to the presidium of the Supreme Soviet, the nation's parliament, with the request that it be ratified, and the presidium sent it on to the Supreme Soviet's foreign affairs commission for consideration.

BONN REBUFFED

Meanwhile, Russia, through Vasily Kuznetsov, a first deputy foreign minister, refused to accept the text of West Germany's declaration of accession to the nuclear test-ban pact because signing the treaty did not mean West German recognition of any other signatory country — such as East Germany.

Robbie Would Burn

LONDON (CP) — Bagpipes are made from African ivory, English sheep, Spanish cane and French cloth.

These remarkable facts came to light when an MP asked some searching questions about the pipe trade and elicited some revelations that would make Robbie Burns turn in his grave.

It appears Pakistan is flooding the country with an inexpensive version of Scotland's national instrument.

It was also discovered Northern Ireland has more pipe bands to the square mile than any other country, including Scotland.

Then people really started digging and found bagpipes didn't reach Scotland until the 18th century. Until then the bag had been the national instrument.

One expert said Caesar's legions had marched to the skirr of the pipes and Nero may have piped, not fiddled, while Rome burned.

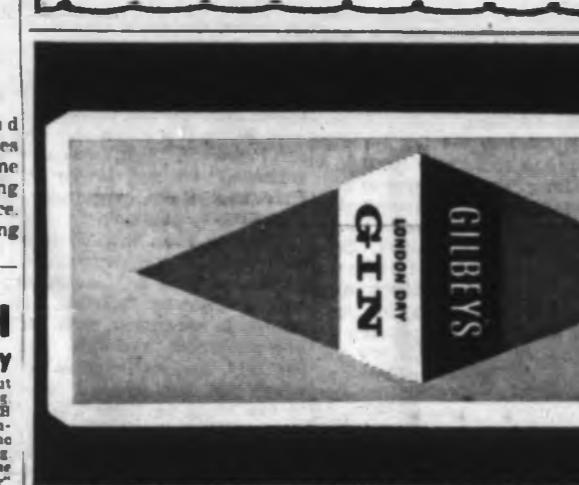

But there's one consolation to this sad lament. It appears Scotsmen added the bass drone that sends Englishmen out for earplugs.

How Can He Know?

THE UNITED STATES foreign relations committee, considering ratification of the test-ban treaty, has been presented with a conflict of expert belief—which is not on both sides entirely a conflict of expert knowledge. The distinction is important.

Dr. Edward Teller, who played a major part in the development of the hydrogen bomb, has come forward as the first witness at the committee's hearings in complete opposition to the treaty. The distinguished nuclear physicist thinks ratifying the pact banning tests in the atmosphere, in space and under water would be a tragic mistake for the United States. The foundation of his contention is that he believes the U.S.S.R. has learned how to defend itself from oncoming missiles, having made this scientific breakthrough as a result of its 1961 series of atmospheric blasts, and that Mr. Khrushchev "wants to stop the atmospheric tests and prevent us from obtaining that knowledge."

Dr. Teller further thinks that with additional nuclear explosions in the air, the United States could find a way at least to establish a partial anti-missile defence—enough to protect the ability to retaliate, although perhaps not to save America's cities.

On this point it must be granted that the physicist may have theories firmly grounded on scientific fact. His confidence in this respect however obviously is not shared by other eminent men of science who advise President Kennedy. For the president only a few days ago remarked at a press conference, "The problem of developing a defence against a missile is beyond us, and beyond the Soviets, technically. And I think many who work in it feel that perhaps it can never be successfully accomplished."

Mr. Kennedy's pessimistic outlook does not mean that hope for a missile defence will be abandoned. Research to this end will continue in non-atomic fields. But it does bring sharply into question the warrant for pursuing the elusive secrets in a way that involves spreading further nuclear fallout around the earth and rejecting a treaty that most of the world regards as a step toward peace and away from holocaust.

Apart from Dr. Teller's opinion that the answer to the defence program must come from testing in the atmosphere, however, one must ask what persuades him that the Russians have already found the solution. How can we know?

If all the might of the United States intelligence agencies and those of allied powers has turned up no supporting evidence for this supposition, if neither the Kennedy administration and all its advisers nor any other friendly government has been able to place this interpretation on the Soviet tests in 1961 and subsequent happenings and appearances, Dr. Teller's belief would then certainly seem to be based on nothing more than simple suspicion. He could equally well deduce that matter that the Soviet Union does not want the United States to find a defence from missiles because it has none and, like President Kennedy, sees little chance of discovering one itself.

Speed Survey

PREDICTABLY—and certainly understandably—Highways Minister Gagliardi has run into some criticism over his plan to have British Columbia surveyed with a view to increasing the speed limits on certain portions to 70 miles per hour.

One of Greater Victoria's most respected senior police officers, Chief W. A. Pearson of Saanich, has this to say: "By experience, 80 per cent of the people on the road today are not mentally and physically capable of driving at 70 miles an hour. There just isn't room for manoeuvring in case of emergency . . ."

However, no matter what is said, Mr. Gagliardi will doubtless go ahead with his survey. And there can be no serious objections to this, but if it results in a finding that some stretches of highway are indeed able to cope with a 70 mph limit placed upon them, the highways minister would be well advised to equate the engineering qualities of the roads with the qualities of the drivers and vehicles using them before he considers advancing the speed limit further.

He should bear in mind that practically all highway accidents are caused—not by road conditions—but through either the mechanical malfunction of the vehicles involved or the miscalculation of their drivers.

An increased speed limit would only heighten this hazard with the result that it may only prove that though Mr. Gagliardi's highways are well able to cope with the wear and tear of a 70 miles per hour stream of traffic, the majority of drivers and their vehicles are not.

Though the highways minister loves speed and hates criticism it is to be hoped that he will curb his desire for the former and open his ears to the latter before he makes a firm decision on the matter.

Heavenly Stuff

RESEARCHERS at the Institute for Aeromedicine at Bad Godesberg, Germany, are experimenting with a menu for future explorers of the heavens, who may be away from earth for months and even years.

The menu consists of one item for breakfast, lunch and dinner. Algae.

Supplies of water, oxygen and pre-produced food would be too heavy and bulky to take along in a space vehicle for such protracted journeys. Algae, however, not only contain all the needed nutrients for astronauts according to the experimenters but will purify used air and used water. If sufficiently supplied with energy—perhaps from a small atomic reactor—they will multiply and work well enough at their purification tasks that 100 liters would probably be enough to supply one man with potable water, fresh air and regular meals.

There are problems to be overcome: the algae would have to be mutated to provide vitamins which they do not now contain, and the investigators are not sure yet that poisons might not develop and kill them.

Even so, it appears that algae can be looked upon as the heavenly food of the future. Somehow, though, we don't think the afflicted folk of Glen Lake will agree with that appellation.

Ottawa Offbeat

Trend to Bilingualism

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

WHILE many people in the rest of Canada seem to be paying little attention to the outrages of Quebec for equality, the Liberal government appears to be paying more heed to its predecessor.

Action to promote bilingualism in government service has been revealed, occasionally with a touch of shock to it.

It has been known for some time that senior civil servants had heard the word and were brushing up on their French (few senior civil servants are French to begin with).

Special classes in French sprang up all over Ottawa during the past year and attendance has been good. It just adds to the bilingual quality of a city which is half-French to begin with.

The trend continued in the selection of the Liberal cabinet.

As usual, a certain number of French ministers had to be chosen from Quebec and were Postmaster General Azelius Denis, Public Works Minister Guy Deschênes, Associate Defence Minister Lucien Cartier, Justice Minister Lionel Chevrier, Privy Council President Maurice Lamontagne, Citizenship Minister Guy Favreau, Minister Without Portfolio René Tremblay.

And the government got some bonuses in bilingualism from other ministers.

Fisheries Minister Hedard Robichaud is from New Brunswick and Veterans Affairs Minister Roger Tellet is from Manitoba, but both are French.

In addition, new Industry Minister Charles Drury and Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp from Montreal and Toronto, respectively, are externally fluent in French, as External Affairs Minister Paul Martin has been since childhood.

Finance Minister Walter Gordon, Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing, Defence Minister Paul Hellyer, Health Minister Judy LaMarsh, Labor Minister Allan MacEachen and State Secretary J. W. Pickering speak better than passable French.

So does Prime Minister Pearson, who is known to add during his speeches in French.

In short, 73 per cent of the members of cabinet are at least reasonably bilingual.

If that's the top, some ask, how about the bottom?

In the civil service in Ottawa, the bottom is heavily

Nuclear Physics

On the Brink of Discoveries

By JOHN DAVY
from London

ONE of the wildest features of modern nuclear physics is its time-scale. It is said that when a motorist is driving helplessly towards an inevitable collision, his mind works a hundred times as fast. A second can seem like a minute. But nuclear physicists live in this kind of speeded-up world all the time.

When atomic particles are crashing into other particles, and the physicists are observing the fragments flying in all directions, a second becomes the equivalent of a day. An event which needs a thousandth of a second is moving for the physicist—at a snail's pace, millionths of a second past at no more than a leisurely trot, and it is only when observing events needing a few thousand-millionths of a second that the physicist nowadays feels things are really beginning to move.

This ultra-high-speed world becomes very real when you talk to physicists operating the giant atom-smashing machine at CERN, the European Centre for Nuclear Research near Geneva.

There, they have just installed a new device which is one of the wonders of modern nuclear physics. It is the first ever "beam extraction" apparatus. For the first time, a beam of hurtling protons (nuclear particles) can be flicked out of the ring-shaped vacuum tube where it circulates, and squirted straight across the experimental hall like a hose.

Buddhists, in their protest against restrictions on their faith, have burned themselves to death. Mrs. Nhu's reaction is applause and joy at such self-immolation. She says they should be beaten "10 times more."

This kind of gleeful animosity is reminiscent of the ancient Jezebel. Not that President Diem himself has shown himself to be a model of tolerance; his regime is harsh and dictatorial and an embarrassment to the West which supports him against the Communists.

But it is to his credit that he has disassociated himself from the vengeful comments of his shrewish sister-in-law. Perhaps the trouble with his rule generally is that too many members of his family have their fingers in the affairs of government.

Since the Diem and Nhu families are Roman Catholics, South Viet Nam's internal troubles may be interpreted as religious quarrels; but the matter is not that simple. As a separate cultural and social entity, the Buddhists present a potential political threat to the rulers at Saigon.

U.S. pressures are having effect on President Diem; he has made some attempts to set up an accommodation with the Buddhists, but the first step would appear to be the elimination of nepotism that causes internal division and impedes South Viet Nam's struggle against the Chinese Reds.

Gradually, the frequency of the radio waves rises, so that the waves accelerate, speeding up the bunches of protons at the same time. Simultaneously the magnetic field increases, to hold the protons on course.

At the beginning of an acceleration cycle, the protons take 6.7 millionths of a second to circle the tube once—a journey of over a third of a mile. To the physicist, they are still just jogging along.

Then they start to accelerate, and at the end of one second—the duration of each acceleration cycle—they are travelling at more than 99.9 per cent of the speed of light.

Each bunch of protons is then circling the tube once every 2.1 millionths of a second. But even this seems quite a long time to the physicist: he is more interested in the time each bunch takes to pass a given point—it is about six thousand-millionths of a second—and the time until the next bunch arrives—about 100 thousand-millionths of a second.

Towards the end of the acceleration cycle, the proton bunches are travelling steadily, without swerving from side to side of the tube as they tend to do when they are first fired into it.

It is now that the "beam extraction" device swings into action. In a few thousandths of a second, hydraulic machinery edges a powerful magnet into the vacuum tube so that it almost touches the beam of protons. The magnet is then switched on briefly, giving a magnetic "kick" which slightly diverts the proton bunches, and starts swaying them to one side of the tube.

It is as though a racing car hurtling towards a bend, were given a push from the side which put it into a "drift" along the track.

Then, downstream of the "kicker" magnet, the diverted bunches of protons come within range of a much more powerful "ejection magnet" which diverts them still more, so that they escape from the magnetic field surrounding the vacuum tube which normally holds them on course.

Until now, physicists have had to start their experiments with the accelerated high-speed protons inside the vacuum tube. The usual method is to insert a needle-shaped metal "target" into the tube. The protons hit the target, and scatter many secondary particles which are collected and detected outside the tube.

But now, the experimenters can bring the full force of the direct beam to bear outside the accelerating tube. This will enormously enhance the power and adaptability of the machine.

One of the most important experiments for which the extracted beam will be used is to hunt down the most elusive particle of all, the neutrino. Neutrinos travel at the speed of light, have no electric charge and no mass. They can whistle right through the earth as though it were not there. They were originally "invented" to account for tiny packets of energy which seemed to be missing when radioactive processes were closely studied.

Their existence is now well-established. It is estimated that something like 100 trillion neutrinos deriving from nuclear processes on the sun pass through our bodies every second—but they are so elusive that in one lifetime, only a single neutrino would be expected to interact with an atomic particle in the body. Then, last year, at Brookhaven National Laboratory in America, a huge experiment was set up using the giant atom smasher there. The experiment ran for 25 days, in which time enough neutrinos were generated so that a few interacted with other particles, producing detectable reactions. Eventually, records of 51 "neutrino events" were obtained.

Now, with their "extracted" beam, the CERN physicists will be able to generate a neutrino source 10 or a hundred times more concentrated than any hitherto available. In a few days, they will be able to get results which would need weeks or months anywhere else.

A huge experiment is now being set up in CERN's biggest experimental hall, with vast masses of concrete and steel, designed to filter out all particles but the neutrinos from the beam deriving from the accelerator. Elaborate devices—including a "spark chamber" which reveals the passage of atomic particles in the form of an electric spark hopping between steel plates—have been positioned to detect the rare occasions when a neutrino interacts with a more easily detectable particle.

All this work is at the very frontiers of knowledge, and has no immediate practical application. But it is clear nuclear physics is now on the brink of another great surge forward into the most exciting uncharted territory. The final consequences of this exploration are unpredictable, but likely to be far-reaching.

The most intimate details of the structure of matter are turning out to be even more subtle and mysterious than had been expected. And only huge machines, like that at CERN, and still greater monsters now being planned, can explore this sub-sub-microscopic realm, where a second is as long as a year, and bunches of invisible bullets are manipulated at near the speed of light.

Greater Interests

By GREGORY CLARK

IF at this time the golf links are crowded, and all the lakes are sloshing with boatmen and water-skiers, the race tracks are sodden with five or ten thousand addicts, and stupendous crowds of three, or five or even six thousand football fans are sitting in grandstands before floodlit fields, at this time you would like to know how many Canadians are interested in fishing and hunting.

The figures make professional sports look sick. Fishermen and hunters were in 1961 distributed as follows: 170,000 in the Atlantic region; 272,000 in Quebec; 579,000 in Ontario; 313,000 in the prairies, and 192,000 in British Columbia.

Anglers alone, to the number of 1,311,000, travelled 750 million miles in Canada in pursuit of their sport.

It is time some sport pages gave more space to the larger interests.

Today In History

By The Canadian Press

The International Red Cross was established at Geneva 99 years ago today—in 1863—one year after an international conference was held in that city to set up the world body.

The organization for the relief of suffering owes its inception to the Swiss banker, Jean Henri Dunant, who was so moved by the suffering at the Battle of Solferino in 1863 that he urged the formation of voluntary aid societies to help the wounded in time of war.

The Red Cross has since expanded throughout the world to aid the afflicted in peace as well as war.

There are problems to be overcome: the algae would have to be mutated to provide vitamins which they do not now contain, and the investigators are not sure yet that poisons might not develop and kill them.

Even so, it appears that algae can be looked upon as the heavenly food of the future. Somehow, though, we don't think the afflicted folk of Glen Lake will agree with that appellation.

Animal Pen Idea Annoys Promoter

Ald. Millard Mooney shouldn't interfere with private enterprise, developer of a proposed Frontier Village near Langford said last night.

Joseph S. Carlow, 698 Treanor, said he will spend between $15,000 and $20,000 on the project which is to have corrals with ponies, goats and pigs as one of its attractions.

ANIMAL PEN

This could all be lost if a service club takes up Ald. Mooney's suggestion and sets up a farmyard animal pen in one of the city parks, Mr. Carlow said.

The one-owner company, Frontier Village, was incorporated here Aug. 15, he said.

50 Cents Meant Survival

MONTREAL (CP)—Exactly 50 cents was the difference between life and death in Skopje, Yugoslavia, for a Canadian private school teacher and six teen-age students.

Serge Troubetzkoy, teacher of European history and Russian at Bishop's College School, Lennoxville, Que., was taking the students on a tour of Europe.

BETTER SERVICE

In Skopje, he decided the group might get "better service" if it paid an extra 50 cents and stayed at the Turist Hotel instead of the Makedonija during their overnight stay July 26.

At 5:18 a.m., July 27, the earthquake destroyed the Macedonian capital, killing more than 1,000 people.

Although heavily damaged, the Turist Hotel withstood the shock. At the Makedonija 260 guests were killed.

Radiation Endangers Children'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Children in Nevada, Utah and Idaho "probably" have received potentially dangerous doses of fallout radiation from both underground and atmospheric tests conducted at the Nevada nuclear testing site since 1951, the Greater St. Louis Citizens' Committee for Nuclear Information said Wednesday.

The group also charged that government fallout monitoring procedures in the Nevada test site regions "have been inadequate."

The committee, through a representative, offered a statement to that effect at fallout hearings being conducted by the Senate-House of Representatives atomic energy committee. A top atomic energy commission scientist told a reporter later the entire statement is re-futable.

Board Backs PTA Protest

Nanaimo school board last night unanimously decided to continue its support of the Wellington PTA in the controversial Jingle Pot Road-island Highway dispute.

Department of highways this week announced it would have the crossing — where a six-year-old boy was killed on his way to school earlier this year — policed by pensioners rather than build an overpass.

Yanks Sweep Doubleheader Which Features Wild Brawl

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Joe Pepitone punched out four hits as New York Yankees swept a doubleheader from Cleveland by identical 3-1 scores Wednesday night and wound up triggering a free-for-all that had players on both teams throwing rights and lefts.

Pepitone collected three hits in the opener, then rapped a decisive two-run double in the pitcher he was being fined $50 for throwing a bean ball. After juggling to first, Pepitone again started for the mound but was wrestled to the ground by first baseman Fred Whitefield.

In within seconds, the infield was filled with players swapping punches. The fight lasted three minutes, and when it was over, Pepitone was ejected.

The twin victories stretched the Yankees American League lead to 10 games over Chicago White Sox, 7-1 winners at Boston by Gary Peters posted his ninth consecutive victory with a six-hitter.

DODGERS WIN AGAIN

In the National League, things started to look once more like a runaway as Los Angeles Dodgers outlasted St. Louis Cardinals to win, 21-16, in nine innings. Sandy Koufax, trying to win No. 20, pitched 12 innings and the win finally went to Larry Sherry.

San Francisco Giants continued to skid, losing, 26, as two home runs by Eddie Mathews led Milwaukee Braves to another win.

At Chicago, Jerry Lynch set a major league record for pinch-hit home runs by connecting in the ninth inning to give Pittsburgh Pirates a 7-6 win over the Cubs.

It was Lynch's 15th four-baser as a pinch-hitter, and it saved the day for relief-pitcher Harvey Haddix, who had tied a league record by uncorking three wild pitches in the sixth inning.

THE Arnold PALMER METHODLEFT HAND GRIP CONTROLS CLUBFACE POSITION

Note that the left hand in illustration 1 is turned well to the player's right on the club. If this player's left hand is in this same position at impact, he will get a straight shot. However, should this hand be turned more to his left at impact than it was at address, the clubface will be closed and a hooked shot will result (Illustration 2).

If you have a tendency to hit the ball with a closed clubface, grip so that your left hand is turned more to your left at address (Illustration 3).

However, if you are a slicer, try gripping more to the right as shown in illustration 4.

ON THE FAIRWAY with MAX FAULKNER

Does your wife tolerate you taking your golf clubs along with you on holiday? If she does you'll probably end in the divorce court, but not to worry. Here's news that will make it all worth while—the chance to belong to the second most exclusive golf club in the world.

I know it's exclusive for the simple reason that at the moment there are only two members, myself and a friend of mine. His name is Jack Billmire, he's wealthy, well travelled and an inveterate carrier of golf clubs on every overseas trip he undertakes.

"Tell me Max," he said over lunch, "how many countries in the world have you played golf in?" Without stopping to think I began, "England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Australia, New Zealand, China, Malaya, India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Egypt, America, Argentina . . ."

I paused for breath. "All right," he said, "you're hereby elected to the Twenty-One Club formed by myself as of now.

"There's only one qualification. To become a member you must have played golf in at least 21 different countries."

Jack Billmire had himself completed his 21st country a few weeks earlier. We drank a toast to the future of our club and designed a blazer badge on the spot. That, at the moment, is where the project stands.

I said at the outset that it is the second most exclusive golf club in the world. Well, that's true. The most exclusive must surely be the Hole-in-One Club which recognizes your prince or pauper—only if you have an ace to your credit. Anyhow, I reckon our club will run it a close second.

It's really cheating, of course, for a professional to claim membership. He can't help playing all over the world. But the amateur club player who can mark up 21 countries during the course of his lifetime really deserves recognition.

I only hope that if this column inspires you to set out to qualify for membership you will enjoy just as much as I have. For over our inaugural lunch, at the request of our President, I began looking back over my travels . . .

"Which," he asked, "is the most perfect course you've ever played?"

No hesitation there. Undoubtedly El Prat, just south of Barcelona, Spain. It's flat, exotic, spectacularly beautiful, has the most perfect turf I've ever seen on a course, yet it remains a tremendous test of your ability.

I must confess I don't even know the par for El Prat. All I do know is that I've played it half a dozen times and twice been in pretty good form there. Yet never have I done better than a 75.

"Which," the President asked next, "is the most fabulous club you've ever visited?"

Well, that caused a bit of mental struggle. There's Boca Rotan, on the Florida coast of America, where the carpets are three inches thick in the locker rooms. But in the end my vote went to El Dorado, 10 miles out in the Great American Desert from Palm Springs, Calif.

It's a glittering little oasis in the middle of nowhere. Membership fees are a modest $300 per annum and the members' board reads like the cast list of a Hollywood extravaganza. Pop in the club house for a drink and you'll probably find Bob Hope at one elbow and Tony Curtis at the other.

It has some fascinating features. Money never changes hands. You live entirely on things that looked to me like trading stamps and then settle your account at the end of three months.

They relay soft music into even the smallest room in the place (which has dull gold tapestry walls, by the way) and if you feel dry halfway through a round you can always reach up and pick an orange from a tree.

"The toughest hole?" the President asked next. No doubt about that either—the 16th at Cypress Point, Calif.

You have to carry 230 yards of the Pacific Ocean between tee and green. And the green lies out there looking about as big as a postage stamp. Groucho Marx once fired nine successive drives straight into the sea and finished up by throwing his clubs after them.

"Finally," asked the President, "which is the worst place in which you've ever played golf?"

Where else but Gezira, fly-blown, sun-baked headquarters of Egyptian golf before Nasser turned the fairways over to farming? I was playing there in the Egyptian Open at the time when the Canal Zone was a shooting gallery for trigger happy guys with chips on their shoulders.

We had no food and we had no caddies. And when something that sounded like World War Three suddenly broke out one afternoon we simply crept through the wire and headed back to Cairo.

"Thanks," said the President. "But I don't think we'll make gold under gunfire as another qualification for the Twenty-One Club."

John D Denies Coalition

PRINCE ALBERT (CP)—Former prime minister John Diefenbaker Wednesday denied he tried to form a coalition government with the help of the Social Credit party following the April 8 election.

He was commenting on a story in a Quebec City newspaper in which Gerald Perron, Social Credit MP for Beauce, said such an attempt was made and failed when he and five other Quebec Social Credit party members announced they would support the Liberals.

Red Knight Killed

GIMLI, Man. (CP)—The Red Knight, the RCAF's solo-performer at air shows, was killed when his T-33 jet trainer crashed at the annual Gimli Air Force Day.

Dead is F.R. Lt. J. W. (Bud) Morin, 25, of Maniwaki, Que., father of two. His daring display thrilled Victoria crowds only last Friday.

His plane flattened out after a roll, hit the ground, bounced up in flames, hit the ground again and rose once more before exploding.

The mishap occurred a few moments after Morin took off with a companion plane for an aerial display above a crowd of several thousand.

A witness said Morin's plane executed two roll-type manoeuvres and hit the ground as he came out of the second.

The RCAF said an officers board would be empanelled immediately to investigate the crash.

Morin became the RCAF's 1963 Red Knight last May when

Hold Pageant Indians Told

WIKWMJIKONG, Ont. (UPI)—Prime Minister Pearson suggested Wednesday Canadian Indians celebrate Canada's centenary with an all-out pageant on this Manitoulin Island reservation.

A band of chanting Indians welcomed their most famous chief in his new capacity as chief of Canada. Ogimabine, the prime minister's Ojibway name, means king of the birds.

Drive in Latin America Debated by Anglicans

TORONTO (CP)—Latin America had its day Wednesday at the Anglican World Congress amid signs that some church leaders are anxious to tread softly and carry no stick in traditionally Roman Catholic territory.

Canon Howard Johnson of New York's Episcopal (Anglican) Cathedral entered a plea for greater Anglican efforts south of the Rio Grande, touching off a parade of Latin delegates to the microphone in support of the appeal.

"There are great chances for us in Latin America," Canon Johnson said. "We are, after all, a catholic (universal) church... devoid of fundamentalism."

Authoritarianism and Church should join an expanded campaign in Latin America.

One congress source said privately that there were differences in the leadership about the wisdom of stepping up operations in Latin America in the face of improving Anglican-Roman Catholic relations.

Canon Johnson and other speakers took pains to emphasize that there was no intention of trying to undercut the Roman Catholics.

"We don't go to try to steal sheep," said Canon Johnson, munion's American executive officer. Bishop Stephen Bayne, of Latin America where there is no church at all."

Canada Pledges Millions

OTTAWA (UPI)—The government Wednesday pledged $14,000,000 in interest-free loans to carry on the work of the International Development Association after 1965.

The IDA was set up by the World Bank to provide long term, interest-free loans to underdeveloped countries which cannot borrow at the bank's normal rate.

Much of the annual $250,000 flow goes to India and Pakistan because they meet borrowing qualifications. A country must be poor enough to be unable to meet World Bank terms but rich enough to indicate it can carry through with its projects.

'Mafia-Like' Comment Spurs Ontario Probe

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Police Commission has been ordered to investigate whether there is any syndicated crime in the province.

Attorney General Fred Cass said at a press conference Wednesday he has asked commission chairman Judge Bruce Macdonald to launch the investigation following comments by RCMP Commissioner C. W. Harvinson that a "Mafia-like organization" exists in Canada.

"This is particularly disturbing," he added. "as commissioner Roach said in his report of March 15, 1963, that, as far as he was able to ascertain, there has never been any syndicated crime in this province."

(Mr. Justice W. D. Roach, after a one-man royal commission inquiry on Ontario crime, reported that the Mafia "is not a factor in Ontario organized crime, despite suggestions to this effect.")

Dunking Kills Pests

By M. V. CHESTNUT, FRHS

Certain pests and diseases that have taken up residence either on the surface or within the tissues of our plants can be destroyed conveniently and effectively by what is termed the hot water treatment.

This consists of dunking the plant in water held at a constant temperature for a specified number of minutes. Actually, a better name for it would be the warm water treatment, for the critical temperature which will destroy the invading parasite without harming the plant is around 110 degrees.

This is no job for the careless, hit-or-miss type of gardener. The water must be maintained at exactly the designated temperature—two degrees too low, and eelworms will escape death. Five degrees too high, and the plant may be injured irreparably.

A reliable thermometer is an absolute must for this job, and it should be big enough to read easily. Personally, I use a candy thermometer, which is about 14 inches long and as thick as your thumb, pushed through a hole in a small block of cork so that it floats in the water.

I find that an old-fashioned tin washtub is ideal for this job—a pretty big one, so the water doesn't cool down too much when the plants are put in. The job is a bit too messy for indoors, so to keep peace in the family, I set up my tub of water on bricks in the garden, building a small fire underneath, just enough to get the water warm to the hand. Thereafter, the temperature is maintained and adjusted by adding a little hot water from a kettle.

This hot water treatment is invaluable for the treatment of strawberry runners to be used in the August planting of a new bed. It frees them from cyclamen and strawberry mite, aphids, red spider and eelworm, and probably some diseases which do not show any recognizable symptoms.

I have treated plants which looked good and were supposed to be perfectly healthy, only to have them shoot ahead and out-perform the untreated plants by a big margin, and the only way I can account for this is to assume that the plants had some hidden infection.

The plantlets should be washed first in running water to remove the soil from the roots, then completely immerse them in the tub at an initial temperature of 112 degrees. Allow it to drop to 110, and maintain it at that temperature for 30 minutes. Rinse in cold water, and plant out immediately.

Similar treatment does a good job of eliminating the microscopic eelworms that infest chrysanthemums. The clumps of roots are cut back at the end of the flowering period and are washed free of soil. Incidentally, the wash water should be poured down the drain as it will be contaminated with eelworm. The roots are then given the warm water bath at 110 degrees for 30 minutes.

Hot water will also rid bulbs of such pests as bulb eelworm, the narcissus fly grub, bulb scale mite and other bulb mites. The bulb eelworm is a tough customer, and if known to be present, the bulbs will need three hours at 110 degrees; the other pests succumb after one hour. This is best done in late August or September.

Rust disease in mint can be completely eradicated by treating the roots in late autumn or winter at 110 degrees for 10 minutes and planting in a new site.

October Holiday the Best

By JACK SMITH

For the first time ever, I have embraced wisdom this year and arranged to take my vacation in October, after all the other grinds are back at work.

There are many advantages to a vacation out-of-season. The highways are less congested. Prices are lower. The beaches are not scrawled with the population explosion. The motels have vacancies.

There is also the exquisite advantage of having one's vacation ahead, while all one's friends have theirs behind them.

Gribbles limped home the other day. They drove to Kansas.

"Hotter'n a pistol every mile of the way," Gribble reported. "Had three flat tires. Got a ticket in Albuquerque. Wrong way on a one-way street. Who ever heard of a one-way street in Albuquerque? Crazy. Got food poisoning from a restaurant in Tulsa. Don't ever go to Kansas. Nothing's there, man."

"That's not the half of it," said Gribble's wife. "He drove like a madman. We had car trouble in Texas, of all places. The magnavox overheated or something."

"Manifold," said Gribble.

"Whatever," said Mrs. Gribble. "It cost us $60. Texas is full of thieves. I'll never go to Kansas by way of Texas again."

"You'll never go to Kansas again any way," said Gribble.

"Not with me, you won't."

"You can say that again, Buster," said Mrs. Gribble.

I luxuriated in the knowledge that my vacation was still ahead, and that I certainly wouldn't do anything as foolish as going to Kansas by way of Texas and Oklahoma.

The more I see of the human wreckage that comes back from the vacation the more I think I may not take one at all, in the ordinary sense.

"We may just stay home," I told my wife. "The boys will be in school. We'll have the place to ourselves. It'll give you a good chance to shampoo the carpet and scrub down the walls."

"Wouldn't that annoy you?" she said. "All that noise and fuss."

"Not at all," I said. "I could lie in the patio. Finish up with Will Durant. If I needed anything, like a liverwurst sandwich, for example, I could just holler."

We could really save a lot of money, and get the house clean, too.

She says she'd rather go to San Francisco and stay at the Fairmont.

Quiet Vital, But

Lines on Life

Silence Is Not Golden

By DR. STUART E. ROSENBERG

An acoustical engineer recently made a simple but quite remarkable observation. In a few sentences, explaining the tyranny of sound, he also summed up a sound appraisal to life. "Silence," he said, "is the lack of noise. Quiet is the lack of distraction. Of the two, quiet is preferable. A certain amount of noise is necessary to retain our sanity!"

Clearly, man is a social animal and could hardly survive sanely, if he did not have the assurance that he is part of the world around him, that, indeed, he is not alone. The frightening feeling we have experienced as children—the dark at the top of the stairs—continues with us a whole lifetime through. We are not able to live in the midst of darkness that shuts out the lights and the sounds of the world to which we belong. Even those who have moved into the cells and the habits of monks continue to survive as human beings because they are part of their own community—even if they have turned their backs on the world-community.

While, for our sanity, silence would be impossible, the noise of the world is often even more destructive. No man can live long creatively if he remains silent—but let us not imagine that we will be much better off, if we go to the other extreme. If we cannot have silence, let us, at least, seek to have and to be quiet. We need to be reassured that our ties to the world around us are intact; that our lines of communication remain up and in good working order. We are comforted by togetherness; but let us not be overwhelmed by it, side-tracked and distracted by the charming noise of others. That is too large a price to pay, and we pay for it in the large coin of self-defeat, abject conformity and the loss of personal integrity. If all we can think is what good is our thinking? If all we can say is what everybody else is saying, why bother saying it?

Quiet, we have been told, is lack of distraction. We are prey to every sound around us, every barking voice, every passing notion, every popular prejudice, when we lack an inner sound of our own. And that sound can come only if we, too, have a voice, if we have an ear to hear what we are saying, an eye to see what colors we are flying, a heart to sense our own irreplaceable, unexchangeable sensitivities. If we do not, we cannot help but hear only the sounds that beat down upon us from outside our own spirit. We never come to know who we are or what we should be because we suffer from spiritual laryngitis. We've lost our own voice because we never learned how to use it.

To retain our sanity, we need to remember that life is with people. To retain our integrity, our unique personality, we need to remember that we, too, are people!

The Little World of SHEILA GRAHAM

Lots of Loot at the Top

WESTPORT, Conn. (NANA)—There is a tremendous amount of money to be made on the road by name stars. Tommy Sands, for instance, last year at Westport earned $5,000 for the week he was there. And when you get someone as big as Ann Sothern, the weekly take can come to $6,000. Her play was not too much of a hit in Westport and the story that it will be rewritten for Broadway later is doubtful.

Eva Gabor was a big surprise to me at the Westport Country Playhouse in A Shot in the Dark. She was so much better than Julie Harris in the same role on Broadway. Julie was utterly wrong for the part of the plump, sexy European peasant. Eva fitted it like a glove.

In fact the youngest and most talented of the Gabors was so pleasingly round I checked with her on the current rumor in Westport summer stock circles that she was expecting her first baby. She had been reported wearing a maternity gown. Alas, "not true," sighed Mrs. Eva Brown.

The rumors of a reconciliation between Sandra Dee and Bobby Darin are surprising. Only three weeks ago, Sandra told a motion picture magazine writer that, while she was lonely without Bobby, she could never, ever return to him. But the loneliness in Hollywood for a woman who lives alone can be so depressing that I am never too amazed when a never turns into a "maybe."

Saanich Road Project to Aid East-West Traffic Flow

Big $87,000 road project in Saanich expected to be open to motorists this fall includes extension of McKenzie Avenue from Quadra Street to Cedar Hill Cross Road. Utility poles will have to be moved and culvert installed in creek near CNR right-of-way.

Second half of project is reconstruction of Cedar Hill Cross Road from Reynolds Street to link up with McKenzie extension. Hookup will relieve traffic bottleneck in Quadra-Nicholson area, says Saanich municipal engineer Neville Life.—(Jack Fry)

$5,000 Loot Found By Saanich Police

About $5,000 worth of stolen tools, machinery and other goods was recovered last night by Saanich detectives after two days of intensive investigation.

Saanich Det. Sgt. Robin Stewart and Det. George Walton recovered the goods, mostly in a private house, last night, concluding investigation which had begun with the picking up of a man in connection with theft of $1,580.

worth of groceries from a supermarket.

The suspect is to appear in court today, charged on 18 counts of theft of more than $50.

Police said the goods are believed stolen from construction sites, hardware stores and elsewhere in the Victoria and Vancouver areas. Many of the articles apparently were taken at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

MOTORS RECOVERED

Two outboard motors worth a total of $1,700 were among the loot recovered, police said. They said an electric wood plane was found in the suspect's car when he was picked up in connection with the grocery theft.

Exhaustive investigation established the tool was stolen, police said. They then obtained a search warrant and entered the suspect's house, where much of the other stolen property was found.

Returning Frigates To Salute Cardin

Seven navy frigates returning from a five-week training cruise will salute Associate Defence Minister Lucien Cardin as they enter Esquimalt harbor Friday morning. The frigates HMCS Sussexvale, Ste. Therese, Antigonish, Beacon Hill, New Glasgow, Jonquiere and Stettler have just completed a cadet training cruise off California.

Aid for Ceylon

Drink Tea, Canada Told

By JACK FRY

Canada can help Ceylon achieve its need for development and industrialization by buying more tea, an official of the High Commission of Ceylon in Ottawa, said here last night.

Ratnasiri Perera, 42, who serves as acting High Commissioner for Ceylon when the appointed High Commissioner is at the United Nations in New York City, arrived here yesterday for a one-day visit.

His country is grateful for all the assistance which Canada has given under the Colombo Plan but will be in a better position to help itself—and to buy Canadian-made products—if Canadians buy more tea from Ceylon, he said.

"All this aid we get is not sufficient in helping us develop our country. Much of the money must come from us, and from the sale of our products," Mr. Perera said.

"If you buy more tea from us, you will be helping us to help ourselves—and you in turn will be helping yourself because we will then have more money to buy your products," he said.

The Singhalese High Commission official hopes to meet Trade and Commerce Minister Robert Bonner today before leaving on a pleasure trip to San Francisco, Las Vegas, Salt Lake City and Denver. He expects to return to Ottawa about Sept. 5.

Mr. Perera is a director of the Tea Council of Canada. He is such an ardent tea drinker that he brought 30 to 40 pounds with him when he came to Ottawa two and a half years ago.

But he has acquired a little bit of a North American habit during his stay here—"I do appreciate a cup of coffee after a meal," he said.

Ceylon sold 19,000,000 pounds of tea in Canada last year, up at approximately $9,000,000. The United Kingdom remains Ceylon's largest market for tea.

Pedestrians Much Safer If They Wait for 'Walk'

By IAN STREET

Installation of new "walk" signs for pedestrians is making it easier to drive and safer to walk downtown.

The signs are installed at all intersections on Douglas between Fisgard and Belleville.

ALREADY INSTALLED

The latest installation, at Johnson and Government, supplements those already in operation at Belleville and Humboldt on Government.

Other intersections on Government will be progressively supplied with pedestrian signals during the next few weeks, city hall traffic officials said yesterday.

SEVERAL SUSPECTS

Det. Sgt. Stewart said Saanich police already have "two or three good suspects" in the case Monday night in which Mrs. William Sendall, 1592 Sonria, was knocked unconscious when she tried to call police after a man walked in the door and tried to kiss her.

SEEK PATTERN

"Information will be held strictly confidential and every lead will be followed up," he said. "We hope to be able to fit the information together like a jigsaw puzzle and find a pattern."

Police Ask Aid in Hunt For Woman's Attacker

Saanich police last night appealed to the public to help find the man who attacked a Saanich woman in her house Monday night.

Saanich Det. Sgt. Robin Stewart last night asked anyone who had been molested, received indecent phone calls, been followed or bothered by peeping toms or prowlers to notify police.

"Information will be held strictly confidential and every lead will be followed up," he said. "We hope to be able to fit the information together like a jigsaw puzzle and find a pattern."

He said that because of press reports of the assault a number of persons have already notified Saanich police of recent incidents in which they were the victims of indecent behavior.

Women too often fail to report incidents because of embarrassment, he said.

South Vancouver Island Rangers will hold a pre-season "deer" shoot at the Luxton range Sunday from 9 a.m. until dark.

Included in the program will be "running deer" targets, still targets, shotgun events for trap shooters, and a ham and bacon shoot plus cash prizes.

Rangers Plan 'Deer' Shoot

A small car smashed into the wall and broke the window of The China Shop, 2469 Beacon Avenue, Sidney, last night, scattering debris inside. No one was injured and police estimated damage at less than $100.

The car was driven by a student driver, a Sidney woman.

MUCH SAFER

"Not only that, but it is safer for a pedestrian to cross downtown streets at intersections where the new signals are operating, provided they abide by the lights."

Strict observance of the "don't walk" signals enables free turning by cars at intersections.

Mr. and Mrs. Fleck Married in Esquimalt

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Arnell Smith, 790 Canterbury Road, announce the engagement of their daughter, Avril Mauszen, to Mr. Reginald Hayward, son of Mr. Reginald Hayward, 734 Broughton Street, and Mrs. M. Peden, Vancouver. The wedding will take place Sept. 14 at 2 p.m. in St. Aidan's Church.

Miss Margaret Anne Malenfant and Mr. Colin Matheson Fleck were married in the Queen of Peace Church, Esquimalt, last Saturday morning. Rev. Father Lewis McClellan performed the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass. The church was decorated with peach and white gladioli.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Joseph Malenfant, 833 Old Esquimalt Road, was given in marriage by her father.

Her floor-length wedding dress of fine tulle over rustling taffeta was classically designed with high neckline and long lily-point sleeves. A small chapel of satin loops and sweetheart bows held her chapel-length veil of illusion net. Johanna Hill roses were in her cascade bouquet.

Miss Mary Malenfant was maid of honor and the Misses Anne and Lorraine Fleck were bridesmaids.

They wore dresses of apricot tulle over taffeta with matching lace jackets. Their pill boxes were also in apricot shade and they carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Colin M. Fleck, 14 Gorge Road West, had Mr. Paul Redchurch as best man. Mr. Norm Healey and Mr. Klaus Freisinger showed guests to the pews.

The reception was held at Holroyd House where the rooms were decorated with peach and white gladioli. A three-tiered cake, surrounded with peach-colored roses, centred the bride's table.

For a honeymoon up Island the bride changed to a navy blue linen suit with white accessories and corsage of Island roses.

On their return they will live at 130 Homer Road.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. Moroney, Bellevue, Wash., and Miss Lynn Hill, Vancouver.

Overseas Visitors

FULFORD — Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Anderson of England were recent guests of Mr. Anderson's sister, Miss Doris Anderson at Beaver Point. Miss Anderson travelled to Jasper National Park to meet them and accompanied them to Salt Spring Island. Mr. Ian Clay of Kenya is also a guest of Miss Anderson.

Donna and Catherine Fraser travelled down from Dawson Creek to visit their relatives, the Ruckle family, at Beaver Point. They were guests of Miss Nan Ruckle during their stay.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: My wife has a close friend who, in my opinion, is a nut. This filbert is a strong believer in mental telepathy, which is all right with me, but it's NOT all right with me when she makes a nervous wreck out of my wife because of some of her far-out ideas.

Last night—or I should say this morning at 3:05 a.m.—the nut called my wife on the telephone. I haven't dated much phone, and asked, "Are you O.K., Min?" Naturally, my all boys are interested in only one thing. She has harped so long on the evils of sex that I'm sure she is mentally ill on the subject.

Recently I started to go with a fellow who is tops in every way. Wendell is two years ahead of me in school. The only thing my mother can find wrong with Wendell is that he is a junior at the college plan to attend. She says I'm asking for trouble if I get interested in a hometown boy and then go off to college it back—LOTTIE.

Dear Lottie: If a girl is going to tell her she'll get off my doesn't much matter if the boys are home grown or not. Your attitude towards school will determine how well you do. And your attitude sounds excellent.

The root of your problem appears in the last sentence of your first paragraph.

Dear Mel: No friend calls at 3:05 a.m. to ask if "you're all right." There is something punitive about the woman's behavior and your wife should not hesitate to tell her friend that from now on she doesn't wish to hear any more on the subject.

Well, maybe she could sleep, but my wife and I were up all night.

This isn't the first time she has scared my wife with her hocus-pocus. Please tell me what you think ought to be done? —MEL.

Dear Ann Landers: I don't know if that letter signed "Al's Mistress" came from Pittsburgh but there is an identical case here and I want to tell you what happened.

Eight days after your letter appeared in the Pittsburgh Press this couple invited several friends to a "hurry-up" wedding. We all knew these two have been sharing an apartment for years. Our group has been talking about it and laughing our heads off.

Even if that letter came from another city the situation was close enough so that at least one gal got the fellow to marry her—and darned fast, too. I say three cheers for Annie old kid—SIDELINE SAMMY.

Dear Sammy: Thank you for those cheers. And now that they're married why don't you and your group talk about something else?

Confidential to Can't Win Her Lover: Of course you can. And why should you with those ally cat tactics?

Bride-Elect Honored At Shower

Employees of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company entertained at a no-hostess shower in honor of September bride-elect Miss Marlene Cummins at the home of Mrs. Robert Arnott. Corsages of pink and orange carnations were presented to the bride-elect and her mother, Mrs. E. P. Cummins. Flag Officer Pacific Coast Rear Admiral W.M. Landymore and Mrs. Landymore take time out from their duties as host and hostess for friendly chat at garden party held for Armed Services Centre, Wednesday afternoon at HMC Dockyard. From left, Admiral Landymore, Mrs. Richard Bower, Mrs. Landymore and Mr. Bower. Also among the guests, shown in photo top right, were from left, Mrs. John McDowell; His Excellency E. Rafael Urdaneta, the Mexican Ambassador to Canada at Ottawa; Mrs. R.D. Barrett, wife of Commander Barrett, Port Alberni; Her Excellency Senora Dona Eva Samano de Lopez Mateos, wife of the President of Mexico; Captain Luis Perez Zarzosa, a member of Senora Mateos' party from Mexico, and Commander McDowell.—(Bud Kinsman)

Singalese Women Play Equal Role

Not only has Ceylon a woman prime minister but also a cold Eastern winter I wear my female high commissioner to sari, because houses are so well heated. For outings I put on big boots, but I don't make a habit of walking in the sub-zero weather," she laughed.

In between diplomatic duties Mrs. Perera finds time to do a little gardening and floral arranging.

Mr. and Mrs. Perera with their four children are guests at the Empress Hotel during their short visit in Victoria. They will leave for Ottawa today or tomorrow, completing a holiday-business trip.

Although most women of Ceylon wear the attractive and very feminine sari, and still retain an aura of eastern elegance, this does not stop them from taking an active part in the affairs of their country.

"Many of the women enter especially the field of medicine," explained Mrs. Perera. "There are also many studying to be lawyers and taking on government jobs."

Our prime minister, Mrs. Sirima Bandaranaike, was not really active in politics, although she was a member of clubs, such as the Associated Country Women of the World. But after the assassination of her husband, the prime minister, she was asked to carry on his work. She is now in her third year of office and doing very well.

English is the second language of the country and is taught in school. It was therefore not too difficult for the Perera children to continue their studies in English when they arrived in Canada.

"Really it is not too different from living in other countries," said Mrs. Perera. "We lived in India, England and Indonesia each for several years."

Continuing in her fluent English she said: "Colombia, of course, is a very cosmopolitan city and we are used to British customs."

Although Mrs. Perera wears saris all the time her daughter wears western clothes.

"Not until the girls are 19 or 20 do they start wearing saris."

Centennial Church Tea

Miss Shirley Johnston, a missionary in Northern Rhodesia for the past five years, will be guest speaker at a tea in Centennial United Church today at 2:30 p.m.

Mrs. Ross Sturgen will be soloist. Mrs. H.K. Johnston, mother of the guest of honor, and Mrs. Clinton Johnston will pour tea. All United Church women are invited and are requested to use the David Street entrance of the church.

PERSONAL MENTION

Captain and Mrs. M. Gay, 925 Lawndale Avenue, announce the marriage of their eldest daughter, Mary Carolyn, to Mr. Kenneth Ronald Gunter, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. K. Gunter, 2058 Oak Bay Avenue.

Returns Home for Wedding

Miss Gloria Mobey has arrived home from Barrie, Ont., where she has been nursing in the Royal Victoria Hospital, for her forthcoming marriage to Mr. Jon Stirling Parker on Aug. 31. Before leaving Barrie, the bride-elect who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mobey, 418 Alpha Terrace, was feted at a tea in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elton R. Parker, the groom's parents. She was honored at linen shower and buffet supper at Mrs. J. Anderton's home and another shower at Mrs. George Chainer's home. She was also feted by staff members of the hospital medical ward and the nurses at Stewart House Residence in Barrie.

That Man in the Kitchen

Potatoes Lack Romance On Our Everyday Menu

By BASIL FITZGERALD

Potatoes nowadays appear on all our menus and we have become so familiar to us we forget the romance that is part and parcel of this most nutritive vegetable. Most people associate potatoes with Ireland. This, I suppose, as a result of the great potato famine, one of the most serious tragedies in the history of Ireland. But, as a point of fact, the potato should remind us of such people as Sir John Hawkins, Sir Francis Drake and Sir Walter Raleigh.

The potato was introduced to Europe from South America in 1539 or 1540. First it was taken into Spain, later it was introduced in France, but oddly enough, in the first instance, it was considered as an ornament.

RCMP Wedding Held Here

Sandra Sidney MacKenzie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard MacKenzie, Brooklyn, Queens County, N.S., was united in marriage with Const. Richard George Stanley Hall, RCMP, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest George Hall, 582 Judah Street, at a double-ring ceremony performed recently by Rev. Canon Robert Willis in St. Mark's Anglican Church.

The bride chose a ballerina-length gown of white taffeta featuring overlays of white net and nylon appliqués, bustle back with two roses at waist, lily-point sleeves and princess neckline. Her finger-tip veil of embroidered net fell from a pearl drop brooch. She wore pearl stud earrings, gift of the groom, and a pearl necklace, and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and white roses.

Mr. Derek Elcote gave the bride away. Mrs. Jean Kelly was soloist.

Mrs. Ann Meabry, brides matron, Miss Aileen McDonald, maid of honor, and bridesmaids, Miss Anja Kerchovens, and Miss Chris Dalton of Seattle, Wash., were dressed alike in straight-length gowns of baby blue taffeta with blue rayon lace overskirts. They wore blue lace headpieces and white accessories. Yellow and white carnations were in their semi-cascade bouquets.

RCMP Cpl. J. E. S. Bragg of Ganges, was best man. Ushering were Const. R. Prest, Cpl. G. A. Smith, Victoria, and Const. F. Luttrell, Ganges. Mr. D. Elcote proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in Lougheed Banquet Club.

For their honeymoon trip to Seattle, Wash., and Portland, Ore., the bride changed to a three-piece coral suit with white accessories. The newly-weds will live in Ganges on their return.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. K. Butler and daughter Sharon, Gibsons, and Mrs. E. Morton, Calgary.

Stuffed bell peppers that are green before baking will keep their color.

plant. In France, in 1807, the botanist Gerard received a shipment of potatoes direct from Virginia and described them as follows:

"These tubers are nourishing as well as a pleasant dish equal to the batata (sweet potato), whether they be baked in hot ashes or boiled and eaten with oil, vinegar or pepper, or prepared in any other way by the hands of an able cook."

Perhaps because we are so familiar with potatoes, we do not give sufficient thought to methods of preparation. Larousse Gastronomique devotes 10 pages to recipes for potatoes and some of these prove most interesting. Here is an example:

POTATOES WITH BASIL

Wash and peel potatoes and cut down to a uniform size. Cook the potatoes in butter and when tender sprinkle with coarsely chopped fresh basil, allowing a good tablespoonful for each pound of potatoes. The pan should be kept covered while the potatoes are cooking, and care should be taken to insure that the potatoes do not brown too much.

Everybody, of course, is familiar with the baked Idaho potato which is no delicious when served with plenty of fresh butter and salt and pepper. A wonderful variation on the baked potato theme is to serve it with chopped chives, crumbled crisp bacon and sour cream. And here is a French recipe for potato salad:

POTATO SALAD

Two pounds of potatoes, 4 tbsp. of dry white wine or 2 tbsp. of dry white Vermouth, 2 tbsp. of stock or canned bouillon, 1 tbsp. of vinegar, 1 tbsp. lemon juice, 1 tbsp. prepared mustard, 1/4 tsp. of salt, 6 tbsp. of olive oil, pepper, minced green onions and chopped parsley.

Wash the potatoes and then cook them in their jackets. When tender, drain, peel and cut into slices. Place them in a mixing bowl, add the wine and stock and toss very gently. Allow to stand until the potatoes have absorbed the liquids. In a small bowl, beat the vinegar, lemon juice, mustard and salt until the salt has dissolved. Then, add the oil and the pepper.

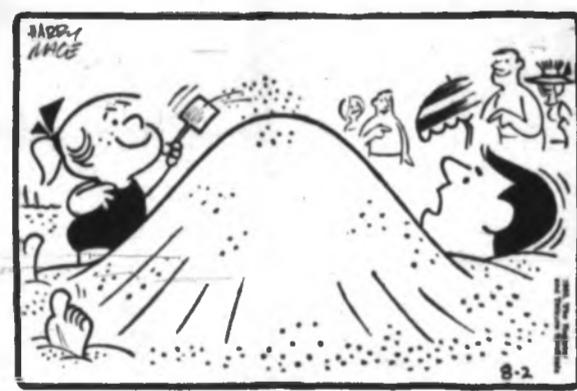

Add the green onions and the parsley to the potatoes. Add the dressing and mix well.

This salad can be served while still warm or can be chilled.

Bon appetit!

Old Wives' Tales Fact or Fad?

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fad or fact: food eaten by an expectant mother affects her personality traits of her unborn child?

Fortunately, in contrast to bygone days, many mothers today know this old wives' tale is a fad. They also are aware that:

- Eating fish will not assure a brilliant child.
- Avoiding cereal will not guarantee the birth of a pretty child.

• Eating celery will not help the infant to be happy.

However, one erroneous belief that persists among some pregnant women is that the nine months of waiting is a time of "eating for two."

The fallacy of this idea is that it implies a need for a great increase in the quantity of food eaten. But studies show the pregnant woman doesn't need to—and shouldn't—eat twice as much as normal.

One experiment, conducted by a New York doctor, involved diets for overweight mothers-to-be. They were put on a 900-calorie a day diet.

GREATER COMFORT

They were able to hold their weight gain to less than normal while experiencing a greater sense of well being and comfort during the last stages of pregnancy, reported Dr. Richard Sands. He also reported the liquid diet was found to have no deleterious effect upon the fetus.

SENSIBLE GAIN

Most doctors recommend a sensible prenatal weight gain, including the child's weight, of about 15 to 25 pounds. Any weight gain over and above the day's quota of 900 calories in 24 hours.

LARGE SUCCESS

The ages of the women in the study ranged from 21 to 40; their weight, between 180 and 333 pounds. At the completion of his investigation, Dr. Sands reported $2.3 per cent success.

Said another way: 100 women gained less weight than had been expected.

Slaughter on Streets Continues to Climb

Ottawa (CP)—Canadian traffic accidents took 408 lives in June, up sharply from last year's June total of 329, the Bureau of Statistics said Wednesday.

The 1963 death toll to June 30 was 1,583, an increase of almost 17 per cent from the 1,355 in the first half of last year. B.C. figures for the first six months were 156 this year, 132 a year ago.

Charge Dismissed

Courtesy Lack Leads to Fight

An altercation in which two men were involved was brought about by lack of motorizing courtesy, city magistrate's court was told Wednesday.

Having heard all the evidence in a charge of common assault laid against George Edward Kaiser, 721 Cowper, magistrate William Ostler ruled there was no proof that Kaiser had been the man that assaulted David John McClelland, 3443 Whittier, and dismissed the case.

BLOCKED DRIVEWAY

The trouble started when a car driven by Kaiser stopped at the entrance to the Tally-Ho Hotel to talk to the driver of another car who was his way. Both cars blocked the driveway.

The McClelland car drove into the driveway and was unable to get through. Then the trouble began.

Hot words were exchanged, according to evidence, and a challenge was issued.

JUMPED OVER DOOR

McClelland claimed Kaiser jumped over the door into his convertible, swinging all the way. He said Kaiser missed him and he climbed out of the passenger's side.

Kaiser said he got out of his own car and walked to the front of McClelland's car before the fight started.

LYING ON GROUND

A crown witness testified he saw McClelland lying on the ground and someone kicking him.

Two defence witnesses testified Kaiser missed with most of his punches and called off the engagement when a motorcycle policeman drove past on Douglas Street.

DIFFERENCE IN SIZE

Kaiser told the court he was just as happy to call off the fight because of the difference in size between himself and McClelland. Kaiser is about

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

—by Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTREAL, August 22nd—If you have a son or daughter with ambitions for a university education, it may be time to begin your financial planning with the comprehensive University Education Programme sponsored by the BANK OF MONTREAL. Through this practical, combined savings loan programme you can open the doors to Higher Education while your child is still in High School. The cost will be less than for a straight loan plan and payments are spread over seven to nine years. Why not discuss the life-insured University Education Programme with the people at your neighbourhood B of M branch? You'll be glad you did!

IT'S A GOOD FEELING, isn't it, to see a sparkling kitchen sink. But no matter how clean it looks, it really isn't clean . . . until the drain is clean as well. The best way I know of to keep drains clean and free running is with GILLETT'S DRAIN CLEANER. Gillett's works with a boiling, churning action that's really effective in even the most clogged drains. Use two tablespoons of Gillett's in every drain, every week. That's the rule I follow. Gillett's Drain Cleaner is now being offered at special savings. Stock up and save money.

BEAT THE HEAT AND DISCOMFORT of summer's "dog days" this wonderfully refreshing way . . . simply add a few drops of tension-relieving smooth silk water of a CALGON BOUQUET bath. Notice how delicately scented Calgon Bouquet, added to your bath water, helps your soap to lather more easily . . . and notice how completely it rinses away, leaving no stickiness on your skin, no ring around the tub! You come from your bath relaxed and refreshed. Incidentally, one teaspoonful of Calgon Bouquet in your husband's shaving water makes the razor glide smoothly . . . gives a close, clean shave.

WHEN YOU'RE PACKING for a holiday trip, there's one small but important item I suggest you slip into your suitcase. It's CORRECTOL, a gentle laxative that helps Nature help you. I've noticed, haven't you? — that the change of routine during travelling often means that a gentle laxative is needed. CORRECTOL was developed by Pharmaco (Canada) Ltd. It is my choice and I'm sure once you've tried it, it will be yours as well. CORRECTOL's secret of gentleness is a non-laxative regulator that makes its action both prompt and unhurried. It is so mild it is recommended even after childbirth.

IS THERE A 'HAMBURGER-FAN' or two in your family? Most folks love hamburgers and they'll love you when you add FRENCH'S HAMBURGER LIFT to your hamburger meat. What is it? French's Hamburger Lift is an all-in-one blend of spiced spices and other (secret!) ingredients . . . all combining to make your hamburgers plumper, juicier and more flavourful. Believe me, good red meat plus French's Hamburger Lift is all you need to make the best burger you've ever tasted. Ask for French's Hamburger Lift . . . three envelopes in each package . . . with enough Lift in each envelope to season one pound of meat. Costs only a penny or two a serving!

PLANNING A 'COOK-OUT' ON THE BEACH or the patio? Please don't forget the Hot Dog Relish!

Actually, your family won't let you forget if it's your very own speciality, now that you've got the added dash of COLMAN'S DRY MUSTARD.

One Wife Won't Move

Upset because her family would have to find civilian accommodation, the wife of a PPCLI soldier plans to remain in Victoria with her two children and a pet dog while her husband goes to Germany with his regiment.

"My husband will do his duty and go to Hennig (in Germany). I shall stay here with our two children. I know other wives in Victoria feel the same."

NO QUARTERS

The woman said she had been told that her family would not be allowed army married quarters but would have to find accommodation, possibly shared with a German family.

"With two small children I won't settle for those conditions," she said.

POOR CONDITIONS

"I know of one case where a Victoria soldier with 12 years' service recently left the army because he will not accept poor living conditions for his family."

"He has been to Germany before and he knows what we are up against."

PPCLI Says Goodbye To Victoria Oct. 5

Pointing to his birthplace, Fort McLeod near Dusseldorf, Germany, is Danny Waluska, 6, of 988 Lyall. He will return this fall in 1st Battalion, PPCLI, move with parents, Sgt. and Mrs. Edward Waluska, and sisters Cindy, 3, and Deborah, 8, both born in Canada.

First Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, will say goodbye to Victoria when they troop the color at Work Point Barracks at 2 p.m. Oct. 5.

The airlift which will move 1,800 men, wives and children from Trenton, Ont., to Fort McLeod, Germany, will start Oct. 15 and continue to mid-December.

Liner Checked For Mail Gang

LONDON (AP)—Police hunting for suspects in the great mail train robbery swooped on the Cunard liner Carinthia Wednesday on the chance that some of the gang might try to escape across the Atlantic.

Detectives searched cars and hiding places—from northern Scotland to southern England where members of the gang strolled their share of the booty.

Glasgow police said they found scattered through the city streets hundreds of shredded pieces of five pound ($14) notes.

$80,000 IN TRAILER

Meanwhile, in London, Scotland Yard announced the discovery of another £30,000 ($80,000) train robbery loot in an abandoned auto trailer.

Police have launched a search for the man and woman who bought the trailer a few days after the robbery and then abandoned it last week in a trailer camp at Box Hill, near Surrey.

RAID DICE DEN

Police Wednesday combed an abandoned gambler's den, once the property of Mandy-Rice Davies' late lover, Peter Rachman, in their search for loot from the robbery.

LOOT TOTAL SET

The house formerly owned by Rachman, a major London landlord, was once the roost of six men and four women. All had disappeared by the time police got there, and no money was reported found.

The post office, meanwhile, said it had finally set the total stolen Aug. 8 at $2,626,747 ($7,880,241) of which a little more than 10 per cent has been recovered.

That much money weighs 2½ tons. Police believe the robbers are getting frightened and abandoning smaller banknotes as they scurry for safety.

Thousands of police with specially trained tracker dogs have discovered hurriedly-made

Tiny Beads Kill Youth

BOLTON, England (AP) — Peter Derby, 19, fell into a vat containing hundreds of thousands of tiny plastic beads Tuesday and died of suffocation.

The accident occurred at a carpet factory where he worked.

Bennett:

Let's Buy British

Premier Bennett has returned from his week's stay in Europe with a pro-British complex.

He told a press conference here Wednesday:

"Some people thought I was not sincere when I said my visit to Britain was chiefly to encourage British firms to seek more business in British Columbia. But I meant every bit of it."

The premier wants British firms to send representatives to next year's B.C. fair in Vancouver, and to appoint more agents to sell British goods in this province.

Too One-Sided

"Britain buys twice as much from us as we do from them, and everyone knows that one-sided trade like this cannot continue indefinitely," he said.

He urged British Columbians to buy British goods where everything else was equal.

"We should endeavor all the time to buy from those who buy from us," he added.

Slaps East

Asked if, under these circumstances, he would advocate purchase of British goods in preference to those made in Canada, Mr. Bennett replied, "Not if the goods were made in B.C. but I would prefer to buy British goods to goods from the east of Canada on the basis that the British are our better customers."

He said Ontario and Quebec were comparatively light buyers of B.C. goods, while B.C. was a massive market for the eastern manufacturers.

"We buy too much from Ontario and Quebec manufacturers who are hiding behind tariff walls for which the whole of Canada has to pay."

"British Columbia and the Maritimes get the worst deal out of confederation," he added.

Out of Place

He was surprised at the demands being made by Quebec and thought its annual $40,000,000 equalization "subsidy" from the federal government was out of place.

He said he was not against biculturalism, nor was he anti-Quebec, "but I am all in favor of seeing that everyone gets equal justice. Quebec deserves social justice, but it must share and share alike with the other provinces where economic justice is concerned."

He said Ottawa favored Quebec economically.

Authority Ends

The premier also said the Toll Highways and Bridges Authority will cease to exist after the next meeting of the legislature and will be replaced by a B.C. Ferries Authority.

The need for the authority will cease when, as Mr. Bennett plans, tolls are lifted from the Oak Street Bridge and the Deas Island tunnel April 1.

Mr. Bennett said that when that happens there will be no tolls on B.C. highways "anywhere" and they'll never return as long as he is premier.

A new authority would be set up to handle the provincial ferries and outstanding B.C. Highways and Bridges bonds would be redeemed as soon as it was convenient to do so.

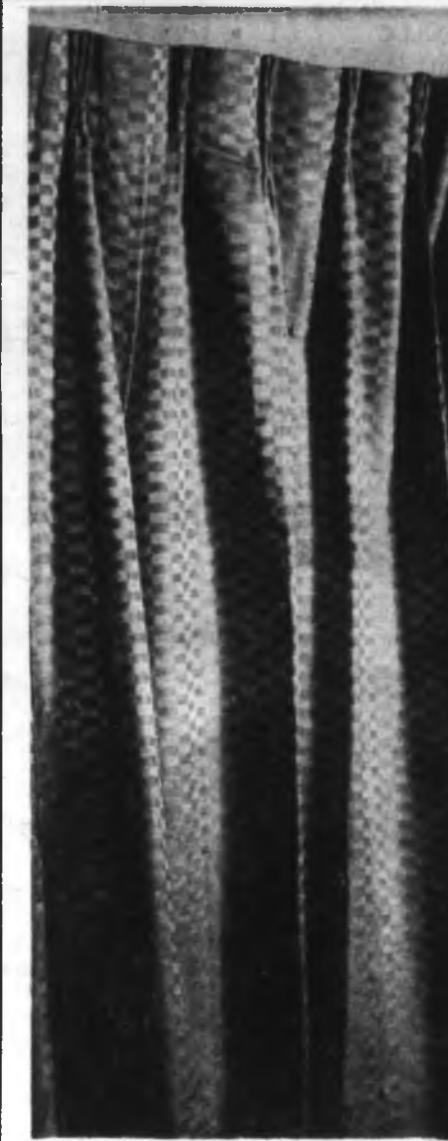

Canadians Moving Up To 'Curtain'

OTTAWA (CP) — The 6,500-man Canadian Infantry Brigade in West Germany will shift its operational area some 75 miles eastward until it is up against the Iron Curtain, it was learned Wednesday.

Lt.-Gen. Geoffrey Walsh, chief of the general staff, left yesterday for Europe where he will oversee preliminary plans involved in the move.

11-Year-Old Bears Twin Girls

STEYR, Austria (AP) — An 11-year-old girl has given birth to twins, police reported Wednesday.

Police said the father of the twins was the girl's 30-year-old stepfather. He was arrested. The mother and the two baby girls born Monday are well.

Lottery Raids Nab 17

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal and Quebec Provincial Police, combining in 30 raids to break up what they believe may be an international ring, have brought about the arrest of 17 persons and seizure of more than 100,000 sweepstakes tickets and stubs.

Summons were issued for 11 other persons.

LISTS SEIZED

Police said they had seized lists of names of possible distributors in both Canada and the United States. The names have been sent to police in cities of both countries.

The seized tickets were for the Irish Sweepstakes and the Army and Navy Sweepstakes.

Those arrested included two women and an 85-year-old man.

EXPENSIVE HOME

Another was Philip Tulin, whose expensive home in suburbs of Mount Royal was described by investigators as headquarters of the sweepstakes ring. Tulin pleaded innocent in court to operating an illegal lottery and was ordered to face preliminary hearing Aug. 29.

Twelve other suspects admitted illegally possessing tickets and will be sentenced next week, when four who pleaded innocent will appear for preliminary hearing.

Abortion Inquiry Sought

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — A coroner's jury was told Tuesday a 19-year-old girl who died after several abortion attempts visited a doctor's office using a password. The jury recommended a full investigation of the July 24 death of Maureen Tanner.

Lynn Chalmers, the girl's roommate, said Maureen told her she had at least two operations after discovering she was pregnant.

Maureen did not say who performed them or where, but did mention by name a Dr. Urbanek, said Miss Chalmers.

DENIES OPERATION

Dr. Zdenek Urbanek testified under the Canada Evidence Act he did not perform any kind of operation on the girl.

He said she was a patient, but he could not remember seeing her and could find no record of her visit in his office. He said he prescribed oral contraceptive pills for her.

Miss Chalmers said Miss Tanner claimed she used to use the name of a man called Gjorki as a password to see the doctor, and her visits were made after the office receptionist went home for the day.

College Bars Dentist

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. G. I. M. Robb has been suspended from practising dentistry for four months after being found guilty of unprofessional conduct by the College of Dental Surgeons of B.C.

He was accused of co-operating with a dental technician in violation of the college's code of ethics. The suspension is effective from Oct. 1, 1963, to Jan. 31, 1964.

LATER CONVICTED

The case arose from a complaint by Mrs. Florence Gordon of Whitehorse, about an ill-fitting set of dentures made for her by a New Westminster dental technician, subsequently convicted of illegally practising dentistry.

The council found Dr. Robb extracted some teeth from Mrs. Gordon without having satisfied himself her plates would be fitted and adjusted by a dentist.

Pagoda Blood Bath Begins

SAIGON (Reuters)—President Ngo Dinh Diem cracked down hard Wednesday on South Viet Nam's Buddhists by declaring martial law throughout the country and sending troops to drive violently - resisting monks from pagodas.

Political observers here regarded the situation as most unstable and there was widespread belief a coup could come quickly.

Hundreds of monks and nuns were arrested and taken away in trucks after bloody clashes at pagodas here and in Hue, 400 miles north.

A large number of them apparently were wounded and some sources said an undis-

U.S. Denounces Diem Violence

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States sharply denounced Wednesday the South Viet Nam regime's strong-arm acts against Buddhists. However, high authorities said American help in the South Vietnamese war against Communists would continue.

President Kennedy assessed with concern reports reaching Washington through diplomatic channels indicating President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime had launched a get-tough campaign against Buddhist opponents, official sources said.

HAZLETON Pa. (UPI)—Drilling was resumed last night by rescue workers trying to reach two miners trapped 331 feet underground in a chamber in near-freezing temperatures.

The men, David Fellin, 58, and Henry Throne, 28, said they were so cold they were unable to dig through 18 feet of rubble to see if a third entombed miner was still alive.

Fellin, Throne and Louis Bova, 42, have been trapped for nine days. This afternoon, a huge 60-ton drilling rig broke down at the 162-foot level, halting the rescue operation.

REPLACE DRILL HEAD

Technicians replaced a rotary drilling head and the big machine went back into use shortly after 8 p.m. Barring further mechanical delays, technicians hoped to break through to Fellin and Throne in the pre-dawn hours today.

Workers lowered 21-by-14 inch heating pads to the trapped miners last night, along with chemically treated hand-warmers, when temperatures dipped below 40 degrees. Fellin and Throne also ate a dinner of chicken, then rested.

FATE UNKNOWN

Bova's fate was unknown. Hope that he was still alive in a second chamber was revived Tuesday night and Wednesday when his tapping was heard by his trapped colleagues.

The rotary drill was churning out a 12-inch wide hole. When this is completed, the hole will be widened to 17½ inches, then possibly to 24. One official said it was hoped Fellin and Throne could be issued this statement in language rarely used toward a friendly government:

"On the basis of information from Saigon, it appears that the government of the Republic of Viet Nam has instituted repressive measures against the Vietnamese Buddhist leaders."

"The action represents a direct violation by the Vietnamese government of assurances that it was pursuing a policy of reconciliation with the Buddhists.

"The United States deplores repressive actions of this nature."

Treasure May Be Engulfed

LONDON (LST)—By the end of November, unless an archaeological expedition which is now starting work, can find enough evidence to stop it, the unexplored site of one of the great cities of the Persian empire will be flooded by a new dam.

Unlike the Egyptian temples of Abu Simbel, there have so far been no attempts to rescue it.

The city, Samirun, 200 miles northwest of Teheran, Iran, commanding the entrance to a great gorge between mountains and desert, will be submerged when the recently finished dam at Manjil fills up.

Peter Willey, the historian who is leading the team, rediscovered Samirun on his way to the Valley of Assassins on another expedition in 1960.

It is a very big site, early medieval and possibly much older. It comprises the ruins of an enormous fortress overlooking a ruined city with a mosque and minaret and at least six mausolea, built by the Assassins in 1100 and destroyed by the Mongols in 1250.

It isn't known who was living there then, but Willey believes they were rich, cultured and civilized. Tenth century chronicles speak of a city of 30,000 houses with temples of gold and silver, and compare it with Persepolis, capital of the great Persian empire during its heyday.

If the site turns out to be as good as Willey thinks—and it looks as if it could be as important as the threatened Egyptian temples which have caused so much more interest—they will certainly bring eleventh-hour pressure to try to divert the flooding.

(UPI)—Rocketing chunks of jagged metal killed three firemen Wednesday night when a fuel oil tank exploded with a roar in a spectacular fire at the Centre Coal & Oil Co.

At least seven other persons were injured, including a young boy whose leg was blown off at the knee.

Will Crossing Be Safe?

Irate mothers of Mount Benson Elementary School children look at controversial Jingle Pot Road-Island Highway crossing where Nanaimo Old Age Pensioners Organization president Joe Sutton, seen below, tries to cross highway and is almost hit by car. Women are furious because despite being told earlier this year safe overpass would be built, word this week was children would be escorted by pensioners instead. Left to right are Mrs. W. Dead Shark Was Prank

NANAIMO—Who dumped the shark in Nanaimo's Italian fountain? The mystery was solved this week when the captain of a fishing vessel told recreation manager Harry Wipper his crew were guilty of the prank.

Mr. Wipper said the captain volunteered to pay all expenses incurred by the city in removing and disposing of the shark and cleaning the fountain.

"I thought this was such a fine gesture on his part," said Mr. Wipper, "that I won't reveal his name."

SICK HOME—Near Solimar went up in flames, it was reported yesterday.

The new owner from Vancouver, Francis Henry Jones, just had his furniture moved into the house, and the moving vans were still on the property.

Mr. Jones had gone down to the beach when an oil stove which the moving men had lit suddenly exploded.

"We couldn't save the house—it was a mass of flames, shooting high in the air," said fire chief Fred Hollings. Firemen trained the hoses on a bush fire rapidly spreading by that time.

VANCOUVER—The Vancouver and District Labor Council has been invited to take part in a protest march next month against the proposed nuclear storage dump at Comox RCAF base. The League for Total Disarmament will march Sept. 28. The council took no action on the letter.

PORT ALBERNI—A grant of $675 was received by Port Alberni and District Chamber of Commerce from the city at a regular meeting Tuesday.

A motion was passed authorizing payment of $1,000 to the district's joint tourist committee which had been given responsibility of meeting the assessment for the Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau.

NANAIMO—The Chamber of Commerce here will conduct a special course to help the small business man in conjunction with adult education classes run by the school board. The course will review administration, selling, accounting and management problems.

Boy Killed

Trailer of Rocks Flipped Tractor

COURTENAY — Two Vancouver doctors aboard a helicopter arrived too late to save the life of a 14-year-old Hornby Island boy who was crushed by the tractor he was operating Tuesday.

Stephen Slade was pulling a trailer of rocks intended for filling a hollow on his father's land, and as he backed the load down a slope it jackknifed. The tractor overturned, crushing him against a tree.

He was able to walk a few steps before collapsing.

Doctors were flown in from Vancouver but he was dead by the time they arrived.

Stephen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Slade, Jr., Hornby Island, and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Slade, Sr.

Board Backs PTA Protest

Nanaimo school board last night unanimously decided to continue its support of the Wellington PTA in the controversial Jingle Pot Road-Island Highway dispute.

Department of highways this week announced it would have the crossing — where a six-year-old boy was killed on his way to school earlier this year — policed by pensioners rather than build an overpass. (See pictures Page 6.)

Kindergarten to Be Opened At Alberni Indian School

ALBERNI — The first kindergarten in B.C. to be sponsored by the department of Indian affairs will open its doors to 25 youngsters of local reserves as another chapter of history is written at Alberni Indian Residential School.

A room in the main building basement has been painted in bright shades of yellow and aqua blue to receive the children at the opening of term in September.

Mrs. Margaret Brew, who as Miss Saunderson taught a Grade 3 class at the school last year, will be in charge of the kindergarten.

Preparation of the kindergarten room is one of the many improvements made at the school under supervision of Principal John Andrews during the summer holidays.

About 275 boarders who will come from all over the B.C. coast will find the dining room transformed with the same shades of yellow and blue, and further brightened by fluorescent lighting.

Dormitories and playrooms have been painted, floors of the main hallways refinished and building rewired.

A highlight of the redecoration project was the tiling of the floor of the entrance hallway to the auditorium. The thunderbird and whale of Vancouver Island Indian lore are depicted in a design drawn by George Clutesi. Mr. Clutesi directed the laying of the colored tile in accordance with the design.

Killed by Dog

Council Pays $88 for Sheep

NORTH COWICHAN — Council has agreed to pay E.O. Suominen $88 for sheep killed by an unidentified dog.

Several weeks ago Mr. Suominen's flock was attacked by two dogs which killed seven and injured four sheep. The total loss was $265.

Mr. Suominen shot one of the dogs, and the owner was ordered in small debts court to pay $100. Ownership of the other dog, which escaped, was unknown.

Public works supervisor, Coun. Tony Staples, reported the public works program for this year is on schedule and, weather permitting, blacktopping is being continued according to plans.

PUMP TROUBLE

He said a minor trouble with a new pump at the Maple Bay water district was rectified.

Coun. Gerry Smith recommended replacing a diving tower at Fullers Lake Park with two low diving boards.

He said he had received complaints and on one occasion recently a youngster almost broke his neck at the tower. "A lot of work is planned on the road to Maple Mountain Park," Coun. Smith said.

Outer-Island Pupils To Have Dormitory

GANGES — Plans for a dormitory at Ganges for the accommodation of students coming to the Salt Spring Island elementary-secondary school from the outer islands were discussed at a meeting of the board of school trustees Tuesday.

The board hopes the dormitory will be available to students by Jan. 1, 1964.

POLICY CHANGE

The board's decision will require that its present policy — which permits boarding allowances to be paid to children — be cancelled effective as soon as dormitory accommodation is provided.

The board found to be unfeasible.

The board has announced a kindergarten will be opened in September and appointed Mrs. Florence Macmillan as teacher.

Classes will be held in St. George's Parish Hall, Ganges.

Body Recovered Off Galiano

The body of a man, believed dead from violence, was recovered in deep waters off the north end of Galiano Island.

Crocker was arrested Saturday morning, 10 days after he was reported missing from his remote Galiano Island home.

RCMP yesterday identified the body of 80-year-old Joseph George, which was picked up after three days of dragging by a chartered beam trawler.

TO VICTORIA

The body was brought to Victoria and is at present in charge of a pathologist.

RCMP Inspector George MacKay, commanding officer of Victoria sub-division, said last night there was no indication the body had been dismembered. No weapon was found with the body.

MURDER CHARGE

Twenty-two-year-old John Stanley Crocker of North Galiano Island has been charged with capital murder in connection with the disappearance of Mr. George and remanded to Monday for trial election.

Violence was first heard when neighbors discovered Mr. George's deserted fishing shack interior covered with blood, Aug. 12. There was no trace of elderly fisherman.

The woman was believed to have suffered a recent illness. She apparently drowned. Police said no inquest would be held.

As a result of the investigation

Rustlers Get Heifer Near Cowichan Lake

DUNCAN — Cattle rustlers Sunday stole a two-year-old Jersey heifer from the pasture of Chris Williams on Cowichan Lake Road.

Mr. Williams said the pasture is near his home, and the last time he saw the heifer was Sunday at noon. The animal, valued at $200, was ready to calf.

Mr. Williams, who is the president of the Cowichan Jersey Club, is offering a $25 reward toward the discovery of the stolen animal. A separate reward fund, set up by the Cowichan Agricultural Society earlier in helping to catch cattle rustlers, stands now at $240.

Tyee Week to Start With Cruise Sunday

PORT ALBERNI — Tyee Week opens in Port Alberni Sunday with a cruise to Bamfield aboard the MV Lady Rose.

Special awards in the program arranged by Alberni Valley Tyee Club include the Compton Jewellers trophy for the largest fish caught by a male member of the club during the week, the Chamber of Commerce trophy for the female member bringing in the largest catch, and the club's trophy for the junior member.

GRAND FINALE

There will be daily hidden prizes and grand finale for the week will be the three-day open derby Aug. 31, Sept. 1 and 2. Labor Day weekend.

Prize money for the derby will amount to $400, with $100 and a trophy given for the largest fish weighed in at Port Boat House each day.

A figure trophy and $25 will go each day to the person catching the second largest.

BOUNDARIES

Boundaries for the derby are the beacon at the mouth of Somass River and Chapp Point. Members and non-members are invited to participate.

Entry forms are available at Port Boat House, the official weigh-in station.

Taxi Given Green Light

NORTH COWICHAN — Council yesterday decided to give D.E. Schutte of Duncan its blessing to establish a taxi service at Duncan, serving the city and the south end of the municipality.

The prospective taxi service operator said his application to the commission three months ago was acknowledged but no action was taken.

He was advised Aug. 16 a hearing would be held in Vancouver, and Reeve Donald Morton said the hearing should be in Duncan.

Both boys were transferred from juvenile to adult court here.

One of the boys who has just passed his 15th birthday, pleaded guilty to 15 charges and the other faces a similar number.

The pair escaped from Branch Lake in the spring. One is from Vancouver and the other from the interior of the province.

They were remanded to a later date.

Tractor Safety Studied

By KLAUS MUENTER

COWICHAN — Would $200 or even $400 be too expensive to protect the life of a tractor operator? Either of the two sums would be needed to equip a tractor with the necessary safety device — a safety cab or crash bars.

The two figures are only estimates from a tractor expert in Duncan because neither of the two protective measures are yet available at tractor factories.

He and another farm machinery specialist agree either of the two safety devices would be a cheap life insurance. Farmers interviewed at random generally feel the same way but the whole idea of safety cab and crash bars on tractors is too new.

"I never gave it a thought before, but I guess it would be all right," said a farmer. "I even would go so far as to suggest government legislation to make tractor safety devices compulsory."

Many agencies talk about seat belts in cars but none so far have recommended crush-proof cabs or crash bars on tractors," said Hamish Mutter, manager of the Cowichan Creamery Association.

in very "tight spots" several times. "One time I jumped off a tractor over so fast a man wouldn't have a chance," he said.

Dairy farmer Walter Smith of Crofton feels a safety cab, which not only would protect an operator from being crushed but also protect him against the elements, could be the answer to a serious problem.

Several weeks ago a would-be farmer from Victoria was crushed by his tractor at Cowichan Station, and Tuesday another tractor fatality was reported from Hornby Island.

According to a provincial agricultural official three people were killed and seven others were seriously injured in tractor accidents during 1962 throughout British Columbia.

At least three mishaps happened on Vancouver Island, the official said. So far this year four tractor accidents claimed two lives in the province.

One of the experts said in most cases tractor accidents are caused by inexperienced operators who cannot handle the powerful machinery, or even by skilled men who want to take short cuts or are trying to do something "impossible."

"It definitely would save human lives," he added.

Mrs. George Whittaker of Herd Road feels it would be hard to make people realize the importance of a safety device, especially in hilly country," Mr. Smith said.

"I don't think a safety cab would hinder the tractor operation very much, and it would be very wise if farmers to give it another thought, especially in hilly country," Mr. Smith said.

He said this department a number of years ago emphasized tractor safety to farmers in B.C. during regular field trips in the summer.

A British farm magazine

some months ago carried advertising on safety-weather cabs with anti-roll bars, all-round vision and complete weather protection which could easily be fitted to leading tractor makes.

He said it is hard to decide — he never has seen a crush-proof cab or crash bars on tractors.

Fairbridge farmer Archie Stevenson said a tractor safety device would be perfectly all-right.

"I think it would be good, and insurance companies would be very much in favor of it," he said. The tractor expert in Duncan said more information on tractor safety can be obtained from the agricultural extension department at University of B.C.

Pagoda Blood Bath Begins

SAIGON (Reuters)—President Ngo Dinh Diem cracked down hard Wednesday on South Viet Nam's Buddhists by declaring martial law throughout the country and sending troops to drive violently resisting monks from pagodas.

Political observers here regarded the situation as most unstable and there was widespread belief a coup could come quickly.

(See stories on Pages 4, 5.)

Hundreds of monks and nuns were arrested and taken away in trucks after bloody clashes at pagodas here and in Hue. 400 miles north.

Treasure May Be Engulfed

LONDON (LST)—By the end of November, unless an archaeological expedition which is now starting work, can find enough evidence to stop it, the unexplored site of one of the great cities of the Persian empire will be flooded by a new dam.

Unlike the Egyptian temples of Abu Simbel, there have so far been no attempts to rescue it.

The city, Samiran, 200 miles northwest of Teheran, Iran, commanding the entrance to a great gorge between mountains and desert, will be submerged when the recently finished dam at Manjil fills up.

Peter Willey, the historian who is leading the team, rediscovered Samiran on his way to the Valley of Assassins on another expedition in 1960.

It is a very big site, early medieval and possibly much older. It comprises the ruins of an enormous fortress overlooking a ruined city with a mosque and minaret and at least six mausolea, built by the Assassins in 1100 and destroyed by the Mongols in 1250.

It isn't known who was living there then, but Willey believes they were rich, cultured and civilized. Tenth century chronicles speak of a city of 3,000 houses, with temples of gold and silver, and compare it with Persepolis, capital of the great Persian empire during its heyday.

If the site turns out to be as good as Willey thinks—and it looks as if it could be as important as the threatened Egyptian temples which have caused so much more interest—they will certainly bring eleventh-hour pressure to try to divert the flooding.

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. (UPI)—Rocketing chunks of jagged metal killed three firemen Wednesday night when a fuel oil tank exploded with a roar in a spectacular fire at the Central Coal & Oil Co.

At least seven other persons were injured, including a young boy whose leg was blown off at the knee.

Police identified the victims as Ashland fire chief Charles H. Moran and two of his men, Norman Berry and John Reenbacher.

Witnesses said Moran was standing less than 30 feet from the stubby, 20-foot-wide fuel oil tank when it blew up. One man said parts of the tank were hurled 50 feet.

The demonstration here was led by Negro author James Baldwin, actor William Marshall, pianist Hazel Scott, singer Mae Mercer, and novelist James Jones. They walked from 1945 through 1952 and 1956 through 1960.

Neubecker, 69, owns a number of Brooklyn apartment buildings, and lives alone without phone or servants. That is just about all anyone seems to know about him. The internal revenue service claimed he failed to pay income taxes from 1945 through 1952 and 1956 through 1960.

This was brought out in federal court Wednesday when the government made a $900, 000 tax settlement with Neubecker on an original claim of $1,000,000.

Neubecker's lawyer, Sidney S. Levine, a court-appointed trustee, said Neubecker had gone as long as two years without collecting rent from some tenants, and it took a court order to get Neubecker to pay himself $100 a week for living expenses.

Neubecker is a unique millionaire landlord. He has to be forced to collect his rent and doesn't seem to care about making money.
